In the light of these, the 25th editions of "Addis Trade for Development" is expected to be a fruitful venue for foreign companies to find business partners in Ethiopia; prospecting business and investment opportunities and promoting their products and services in the emerging Ethiopian market. In a bid to enhancing benefits to participants, the company has planned for more splendid business matchmaking events through organizing business to business meetings between companies (both local and foreign) alongside the exhibition. In the light of this, the company shall publish participating companies and their respective businesses in newspapers, posts on its website and send mail messages to all participating companies to allow planning for business to business meetings ahead of time and facilitate bilateral business talks between interested companies. In recognition to the unique circumstances of foreign companies, special provisions have been made that allow them to book for less than the entire duration of the event. The event organizer has also planned to break the monotony of hard business talks by organizing a free dinner and cultural show for foreign participants arriving for the event in groups. With this, our foreign participants can have a glimpse of what Ethiopia can offer to the outside world in terms of leisure and tourism.

While cordially inviting foreign companies to take this opportunity to promote their products and services in the emerging Ethiopian market and explore for new business and investment opportunities, CPS promises to serve its clients to their best expectations.
